

We're gonna need a bigger hall!

by Club 'Prez 'Del Paone

What the heck is going on? It seems like at every monthly meeting we take on a new member or two. I'm not complaining...I think it's fantastic.

Some of our newer recruits are Bob Jeffers, Scott Ryder, Pat Wilkins and Steve Robillard. Not only have we added enthusiasm with these newbies...we've also added a lot of talent. I'm looking forward to seeing some of their finished products.

At our June meeting we had three more potential members, Bart Navarro, Tom Moody and Luis Sanchez, stop in. Luis brought a group of rust bucket rat rods for our Show-N-Tell and they were very impressive.

Why are these builders knocking on our door? I think they are finding us on-line...or they attend one of our model exhibitions and decide to attend a meeting for a look-see. When they see that we are NOT a politically motivated club with a lot of bureaucratic rules, they sign up. Our format is very loose and everyone gets to speak and show their work and participate in a lot of Q&A, which seems to help many of our members. The only requirement that we have is that you have a sense of humor. Everyone has their turn in the barrel. Our newsletter editor Art Paquin makes sure of that. Our club is a club of 'builders'...a lot of them with a lot of talent. What makes it even better is that they're all great people. If you need something for your project...just ask, I'm sure several of our guys and ladies would be happy to help you out.

It's great to see our club thriving. It's not due to any one person...after all we're a 'club' with a host of different personalities. Wouldn't it be a bore if we were all the same? Ya right!

Observations of the grumpy modeler

By Mike Siesicki

The Grumpy Modeler is finally back in business...no thanks to Microsoft and their Windows 10 upgrade. I'm back to Windows 7 where I belong. The lack of a computer has not stopped Grumpy from looking around the Club and observing things.

I have observed the Club is getting BIGGER! Many new members are joining up and it's great to have new blood joining the ranks with new ideas, new builds, and new questions. Pretty soon we'll have to move our meetings upstairs to the larger room. Welcome aboard guys!

What is with the Skill Level ratings on new kits these days? Skill Levels that could be a Level 2 are now heading up to Skill Level 5! What?!!! We want to attract new builders and not frighten them away with increased ratings that would want to make them pass on a new model kit. Come on manufacturers...ease up! Leave the Skill Level ratings alone.

Drama! I hate drama! First it was the member who was using the Club to promote a failing hobby shop and his losing to others at our yearly show. And now the drama surrounding a member going through some personal issues has become quite the distraction for the Club. We are a model club, not a platform for changing your whatever. Keep the personal issues at home. Build a model, bring it to the Club Show-N-Tell and let's talk about it. We don't need no stinkin' drama!!!

Speaking of Show-N-Tell, the tables during the meetings are jammed packed with builds of all kinds in various stages of completion. Ya gotta love it!

Has anyone noticed that the curtain divider between the bar and our little meeting hall is falling down?

Does the Club know what it has for kits? I have a box at home with 8 unsealed kits and 2 sealed kits that belong to the Club. I've supplied a complete listing of these kits for Art.

The model get-togethers at Paul's and at Ken and Barbara's homes have been a great way to have a meeting of sorts in an informal type of atmosphere. These get-togethers are something I look forward to especially when the next Club meeting has been pushed off due to a holiday.

The Club Facebook page is now 2 years old and being run by Joe Baril. It has been a great way to keep in touch with other Club members and a few others who are not part of the Club. Keep up the great work on the page, Joe!

That's about all Grumpy is going to report on for now. Just remember, I'm old, I'm gray, and stay off my lawn!!! Keep on building!

Ahhh, just a suggestion...

by Sargent-at-Arms Ron Tremblay

With the decision at our last meeting to change our 2017 show sub-theme to 'Any vehicle with an animal name', I did a little research and came up with a list of vehicles with animal names. I know that many of these were never made as a kit, but possibly a resin body exists for some of them. Use your creativity.

Hello everyone. I would like to share with you a collage illustration of a Chrysler 300G that I did back in April 2016.

Originally back in 1994 I came upon this '61 Chrysler on exhibit at the Larz Anderson Auto Museum in Brookline, MA. With a charcoal stick I sketched the gestural pattern of it's likeness on to white paper. I minimized this sketch because I wanted to erase it later. Next, using a reed pen and a soft water colorists brush, I did all that seemed essential to portray the look of the car in gray toned ink. I was not pursuing a photo-like rendering so some expressive distortions would be fine. When done I then erased the charcoal marks.

Originally intended as a picture to be published in the MassCar Model Car Club newsletter, I made reduced photo copies. The most effective copy I then enhanced with a few black and gray colored pencil marks and had it reproduced in that newsletter.

While attending the World-of-Wheels show in Boston last April, I showed one of the old photo copies to my friend Wayne Warrick. Wayne is a vendor (Road Daddy Productions @aol.com) and subscription representative for Kool House Publications, Inc. (producers of Ol'Skool Rodz and Car Kulture Deluxe magazines). His enthusiasm about the drawing inspired me to make a collage variation.

Using an office copy machine, I've enlarged the image that I had showed Wayne. Next, using a number 11 Exacto knife I cut out the contour of the sketch and many of the 'shade' areas as well as a rounded and distorted rectangular frame. Lastly, I glued these on to black construction paper and enhanced a few areas using black, gray and white colored pencils. Using office supply 'white out' fluid I touched up a few spots I did not like.

Thanks, Dick
